WILLIAM D. SQUIRES

Vice President and General Manager

Giants Stadium

April 9, 2001

Dear Sir,

The purpose of this letter is to most strongly recommend Independence Communications for any two-way radio system needs that your company may require. I have been fortunate enough to have enlisted support from this company in both a start-up and established organization and I have not been disappointed.

Independence Communications was the vendor of choice for the opening of Cleveland Browns Stadium in 1999. The sophisticated state of the art radio system, engineered and installed by Independence Communications, and the support provided by them contributed directly to the success that the Cleveland Browns organization enjoyed in operating the Stadium during its inaugural season.

I recently assumed the role of operating Giants Stadium in the Meadowlands of New Jersey, the busiest non-baseball stadium in the United States. The Meadowlands Sports Complex consists of the Stadium, Continental Airlines Arena and the Meadowlands Racetrack. The Complex hosts over 600 events and seven million guests a year. Needless to say, communication amongst the event staff is critical to the operation. The Sports Complex utilized the services of a local vendor, but I asked our communications coordinator to compare the current services to Independence Communications. The overwhelming response was that Independence Communications offered the best prices and service second to none. As a result they are now our vendor of choice.

Independence Communications has been a terrific partner. Their professionalism, dedication and personal involvement set them apart from others. They have my total faith and confidence. When evaluating your communications needs I think it would be prudent to contract Independence Communications. It will impact both your bottom line and the reliability of your system. If I can answer any questions please feel free to give me a call.

William D. Squires,
